CONGRESS.

The Senate Passes a Bill Which Gives Grant General's Pay--Debates and Bills.

The Remains of Ex-Vice President Colfax Meeting with Great Respect and Ceremony.

The Lawyers of the Springer Investigating Committee Have a War of Words.

Congressional News.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—In the senate Edmunds calling Fry to the chair took the floor and called up the bill providing the president with the power to appoint to the retired list at least one person who has been commander of any army of the United States, or general in chief of the United States army. He amended by adding "with rank and full pay of such general or general in chief as the case may be." Cockrell opposed the bill as unjust as the retired list is intended for officers retiring by reason of wounds or old age and not for private citizens, and said General Grant was enjoying an income now of $15,000 a year, which was enough for a private citizen.

Edmunds's bill to place General Grant on the retired list with the full rank and pay of a general passed the senate after a short debate. Yeas, 40; nays, 9. Edmunds spoke strongly and feelingly in favor of the bill. Among the democrats Maxey, Voorhees, George, Gibson and Jones spoke in favor of the bill. The senators who voted nay were Beck, Cockrell, Cook, Harris, Pendleton, Sagahury, Slater, Vance and Walker.

The bill to repeal the pre-emption and desert land acts, which was favorably reported to the senate yesterday, is a house bill, amended in the senate. It awaits action by the senate and if passed goes back to the house. The statement that it passed the senate was a mistake. It was only reported favorably from the committee on public lands.

On motion of Mr. Hawley, the senate took up the Sherman-Davis resolution, and Senator Vance spoke upon it. He quoted from General Sherman's letter the allusions to the fling of Governor Vance's official correspondence. He said no party of the official correspondence or words were ever kept in the executive mansion. The letter referred to by General Sherman was not found in copy referred to, for the reason that no such letter was ever there. He asserted on the honor of a gentleman, that no letter making a threat, as General Sherman alleges to have been made, was ever received by the speaker from Jefferson Davis. The men who fought on the northern and victorious side seem to think it a shame that those who fought for the south and lost did not join in an attempt to heap obliquity on the head of Jefferson Davis. The speaker said it was well known that it had been drawn into the secession unwillingly, but once in, there was not a day nor an hour that he had not done his best to make it successful. General Sherman would rob him of this satisfactory reflection, it was true. The speaker had sent an embassy to General Sherman to ask protection for his people, but the confederacy was then at an end. General Sherman had found, in fact, that he did not await a return of his embassy with the evidence that he was afraid of Jefferson Davis. A friend of Jefferson Davis, then a fugitive, was there ever a proposition more absurd? The reason why he tried not to await the return was because it was reported that the commissioners had been captured by Kilpatrick's cavalry and completely robbed of their personal possessions and taken to General Sherman's headquarters, thereupon he joined the line of the returning army. General Sherman had said the commissioners sent by Governor Vance, (ex-Governor Graham and Swain and Surgeon General Warner), told him that Governor Vance wanted to make separate terms for the state, but was afraid of Jefferson Davis. Mr. Vance did not believe they said so. It could not be true, as they were men eminent for exalted characteristics not more than their regard for truth. Two of them were dead and the third was now an eminent physician in Paris and no statement from him has been produced. They would never have told General Sherman or any other living man the reverse of what they knew the truth to be and they knew that he (Vance) was not afraid of Jefferson Davis.

At the conclusion of Mr. Vance's remarks Mr. Hawley said: "The purpose of his resolution was simply to make accessible what he regarded as information of historic value. He did not seek this debate nor did he wish to prolong it; he had no disposition to wantonly assail or exalt over men who had lost, but whenever issues were presented which had been brought into view in this discussion he maintained the standard he had maintained in the war, and characterized as conspirators and traitors those who engaged in conspiracy and treason. His principal was, we must judge men by the light they have, but measure them by the light we have. He then reviewed some correspondence that passed between Governor Vance and President Davis and read a letter of Mr. Vance protesting against the proposed suspension of the writ of habeas corpus and threatening that the people of North Carolina would resent it. He also refers to the refusal by Governor Brown, of Georgia, to obey an order of President Davis for justifying General Sherman's ranks about the opposition in the confederacy to Davis' administration. Our judgment of the secession measure was absolute, final, severe crushing, and that judgment has been rendered in the highest court to which mankind could appeal. Those who had differed with us on war issues had declared that a state had a right to secede from the union, and asserted certain rights of sovereign and independent states, which we had felt it our duty to deny. The proposition involved in the matter now under discussion showed the inherent fallacy of these claims, because it showed that those who asserted them could not stand by them. It showed that in order to sustain life the confederacy of Jefferson Davis resorted substantially to powers exceeding those assumed by the United States government. Mr. Hawley knew that 39,000 or 40,000 majority of the people of North Carolina were up to a certain point opposed to secession. He knew it could not be effected in North Carolina had it not been for the support of union men among whom had been the distinguished senator from North Carolina (Vance), but that gentleman knew that in the judgment of those union men and others who were not union men, that Davis did go beyond his rightful powers as President of the Confederacy, under the confederate constitution; that he did abandon theories; that he and they had considered it proper for government and that they rebuked him, notwithstanding that the secession was based on the alleged tendency of the United States government to interfere with slavery; yet toward the close of the war, Mr. Hawley said, the confederacy sent a message to the British government, offering to abandon and wholly abolish slavery, if by that means, it could get the support of England. There was no question of truth that the statement of the proposition, however, was declined.

Mr. Brown was the next speaker. He said he was willing to stand upon his record and did not propose to discuss it, but would reply to one or two assertions that had been made in regard to his alleged obstruction to President Davis. He differed with Davis very materially on several questions and discussed the differences with him very frankly, but threw no obstacle in the way of his military operations. Nor did he ever disobey any legal order which the president of the confederacy had a right to make. When General Sherman invaded Georgia he (Governor Brown) had organized a military force of old men and boys, and who were not liable to conscription and military duty under the law of the confederacy. A requisition was made by President Davis to turn this body of troops over to the regular confederate commander and he refused to obey it, because the president had not the right to issue an order, and undoubtedly had issued it under a misunderstanding of the case. He quoted from his own messages to the Georgia legislature to show his relation to the confederacy at the time and his earnest effort to support the military operations. He quoted from Sherman's letter and correspondences between the latter and President Lincoln. He said he entertained at no time no such purpose to visit General Sherman, as the latter seemed to suppose, and he believed that Stephens entertained no such purpose. He had been invited through Mr. King by Sherman to visit him to a trial for terms of peace as far as Georgia was concerned, but he had replied that he had not authority to negotiate. The speaker was not an original union man; he was a secessionist from the beginning, there were few of the family left here. He again quoted from his reply to General Sherman his declaration that come what come was, the state of Georgia should not, with his consent, abandon the confederacy.

Senator Hawley said he thought the records would not be complete without a few quotations from matter already published. He read from Sherman's papers a communication with the confederate secretary of war, to Governor Brown, directing the Georgia reserves to report to the confederate authorities, and Governor Brown's refusal to comply; wherein he also comments upon the failure of the president to defend Georgia in her emergency, and expresses the purpose to use the Georgia forces for defense against foreign foes or domestic usurpation.

HOUSE.

Messages from the secretary of state and the president were laid before the house to the effect that one of the certificates of the electoral vote of Oregon and one from Iowa had not been received, and the secretary of state asked an appropriation to pay such messengers. Randall introduced a bill to appropriate $1,500 for the messengers. Weller introduced a bill to repeal the bonded debt of the United States at 2½ per cent interest; to reduce taxation on circulating bank currency and to secure such currency against unnecessary disturbance and fluctuation by applying national revenues economically to the payment of the public debt. Retorted.

Phelan's Record in England.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—The police have ascertained that Capt. Thomas Phelan lived in Sheffield in 1883 and openly avowed himself an agent of O'Donovan Rossa. He always dressed well, wearing a different suit of clothes every day and seemed to be abundantly supplied with money. He had a large quantity of luggage including a dressing case containing every toilet requisite. He denounced the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke, saying it was a bad plan, but when James Carey turned informer against the assassin Phelan cursed the informer and uttered vague threats of vengeance. Phelan's acquaintances in specific remember this fact when Carey was slain by O'Donovan, and they believe that Phelan had something to do with planning Carey's taking off.

This is expected to bring a large emigration to the far northwest this summer.

A Misunderstanding.

CINCINNATI, January 13.—The most of the morning was taken up by the Springer investigation committee hearing testimony concerning the riot in the western part of the city on the night after the polls closed, in which two policemen were killed and several deputy marshals wounded. Judge Foraker in the cross-examining asked all the witnesses if they could name any Democratic who did not vote that day. None of them were able to name any. James White, policeman, said he was directed to watch depots before election. He saw many colored people coming into the city on the night before the election. He received a dispatch from the county Democratic committee telling him that a man named Maxwell or Stillwell was coming by the Chesapeake & Ohio railway with 200 negroes and that the National Democratic committee had sent them, and with this information he said they had made a mistake on recommending Maxwell to the Democratic committee. He tried to meet that train, but failed, he did, however, reach the suspension bridge to see a large number of negroes come and followed a squad of eleven to the United States custom house. He thought that there were 5,000 or 6,000 more colored people than usual here on election day, but all soon disappeared after the election.

On cross examination, the witness stated he had served seven months in prison for procuring one Connolly to vote illegally in 1878. He was pardoned in 1876 and had been unjustly convicted. He had been at several voting places on last election day looking after repeaters. Several persons were following him around.

Judge Foraker here asked White, "is it not a fact, whether deserved or not, that you have been notorious in Cincinnati for years, as the leader of a gang of repeaters?"

Chairman Springer (to the stenographer)—Strike that out; it is intended to insult the witness. That shall not be done in this investigation.

Mr. Foraker—Then you may strike me out of the record also, for it shall be a farce if such a ruling is made. It has been a farce, for that matter, from the beginning.

Mr. Springer—You have no right to insult a witness as I believe your question was intended.

Mr. Foraker—If the chairman charge es one with intending to insult a witness I shall take my leave of the case. It was doubtless offensive to ask the witness if he had been in the penitentiary, but no lawyer will doubt my right to ask such a question. I consider the lawyer a coward who takes advantage of his position to insult a witness. I never permitted it while I was on the bench and I certainly had to resent the imputation cast on me—the first time in sixteen years' practice. I asked the witness whether, desirably or not, he was not notorious.

The judge had taken up his papers and hat and was about to leave when Mr. Stewart, a member of the committee, said he thought the chairman might have been hasty in charging Judge Foraker with intending to insult the witness. Mr. Springer had not observed the modification, "Whether deservedly or not," and the stenographer was appealed to and he said those words were in the question. Mr. Springer said he could not say that the counsel intended to insult the witness, but the question, as he understood it, had that appearance.

As Judge Foraker turned to leave he saw there was no attorney for Marshal Wright present. The other members of the committee, as well as Mr. Follett and his counsel, asked him to remain, and the examination proceeded. Mr. Vanastyne laughingly asked Mr. Springer if he should take the chair.

Michael Mallen, lieutenant of police, was examined in relation to the arrest of negroes on the night before the election. He was very bitter with Judge Baxter for sentencing him to twelve months in jail for the offense of locking up the colored people in the Hammond street station house election day. On cross-examination he said he submitted to the compromise verdict rather than run the risk of a trial before a partisan court and jury. He did not know there were Democrats on the jury. If there were they were "fixed" for his conviction. Judge Baxter was sent here expressly to try him. It was a greed that the short hand report of the testimony at Mallen trial be put in evidence. Chairman Springer directed the sergeant at arms to summon the witness for Marshal Wright to appear Thursday morning.

Superintendent Law Sees a Written Order on the Mayor For Assistance

—The Marshal, Chief of Police and Sheriff

Mass Their Men.

Supt. C. D. Law went to the east yards this afternoon and turned a switch to let a train out. The strikers turned the switch back and held it against the superintendent. Mr. Law then came to the city and filed a written application with the mayor for police protection. Mr. Law also waited on Sheriff Nelson and made a similar demand. The officers held a consultation and decided to mass the forces of the sheriff, chief of police and marshal, proceed to the Pittsburg road and first protect all freight trains bound west.

Since the application for protection the city and county are liable for all damages to railroad property and consequently the officers must exert themselves.

What will be the outcome of this determination cannot now be predicted. The Veteran Militia company has been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to respond to the call of the governor.

At 4 o'clock THE SENTINEL representative sought Superintendent Law. He had just left a committee of the strikers and responded, "We have come to no agreement."

"You have asked police protection will you send out trains?" asked the reporter. "Just as soon as we get men the trains will go out, and we expect our property to be protected."

Messrs. Walton and Clark, the masters of transportation, were interviewing brakemen who wanted to work when the reporter left.

George H. Rogers, representing L. I.
Rowe, of Boston, Massachusetts, manufacturer of the Ridgeway Automatic regulator for hot air furnaces, is in the city.
It is claimed for his regulator that it gives a more even heat, saves the furnace, saves fuel and labor, prevents clinkers and danger from fire by overheating.
He is placing it in some of the finest residences in the city and will be here for several days to come to take orders.

Prof. Reynolds, the mesmerist, failed last night to find any subject susceptible to mesmerism and dismissed the audience. He returned all tickets. He complains that there is a dearth of subjects in Fort Wayne, though a number of well-known people were on the stage last evening. It is seldom that this occurs, however, and it is possible that tonight's entertainment may be as much of a success as last night's was a failure.

Mary Evans, a widow, had Mrs. Mc-Hugh arrested for surety of the peace.
Justice Scarlet heard the case and, al-evening: "The Way of Salvation."

The horse attached to Studor's pop wagon ran away on Fairchild avenue this morning. The wagon was smashed and popped into the air as if propelled by a dynamite explosion. Mr. Studor calmly viewed the disaster from a saloon door.

The many friends of Charlie Jacobs will be sorry to hear of his death. He served his time in the Wabash shop here as a machinist, about five years ago.
After that he went to New York City, his home. He afterwards was married and went to Texas, where he died the other day, leaving a wife and baby six weeks old. His remains were taken to Indianapolis for interment by C. F. Lape, his uncle.

The postmaster general has issued a general order which permits the forwarding of all classes of mail matter or the return of the same at the request of the sender without the prepayment of the money due at the office of delivery. The order extends the privilege hitherto enjoyed by mail matter of the first class to the other classes. Postmaster Keil has

Col. George Humphrey, superintendent of the new government building, has let the following contracts: The excavation to E. Gerbering for $151; the concrete to Henry C. Paul for $331, and the office building to Hendrick & Shrimpton for $213. The main building, on the extreme, is only 52x85 feet, and is a small affair compared with the Masonic Temple, which is 90x120. The work is to be started for a two-story building, but three stories can be put on if more money is appropriated. The plans of the structure are pretty.

The meeting of citizens in the superrior court room this evening to take action upon the new hotel should be well attended. Potter Palmer, of the famous Palmer house, Chicago, will be present and give his views and experience relative to the vast advantage a large hotel gives to a city's growth. The $150,000 put in the building now, will in a few years represent $200,000 or even a larger sum. Other property will increase in value at a corresponding ratio. It is a very auspicious opportunity and should not be neglected.

STILL ON TOP.

The Pittsburg Brake Tenders Make a Determined Stand Against Double-Headering—A Committee Sent to Sept. Law—The Police Called Out.

As THE SENTINEL predicted last evening, the striking Pittsburg trainmen mustered courage and entirely blocked all freight traffic through this city. The men have an organization and now face the officers boldly. The first section of train 73, that pulled out yesterday afternoon, was stopped at the junction and the locomotives sent back to the round house. The second section was stopped at Broadway and the fires of the engines put out. Thus were all the freight trains hemmed in and the switches spiked at either end to shut off escape. A party of men remained at the junction, west of town, all night and probably 100 men were at the new yards east. The officers of the road made no attempt to send out freight trains, preferring to await the arrival of Sept. C. D. Law.

Mr. Law came from Pittsburg this morning and proceeded to the east yards where he found nearly two hundred trainmen. They firmly informed him that double headed freight trains would not be allowed to move. Mr. Law sent Master of Transportation Walton to ascertain the grievances of the men.
They, of course, told him the scheme of doubling freight trains and putting two engines on each train, necessitated the dismissal of a number of men and doubled the work of the others. They then decided to appoint a committee and present the matter to Superintendent Law this afternoon.

This morning the local freight train came from the west and ran through the city at the rate of forty miles an hour.
This was a surprise to the strikers, who promptly pulled the spikes from switches and promised to send the next freight into the ditch. Thirty-five car-loads of live stock next came in and were transferred to the Wabash and sent east by permission of the strikers. The brakemen of all incoming freight trains carried white flags, indicative of their surrender to the strikers. Nearly five hundred loaded freight cars are blockaded here and it is feared all the high class will perish, entailing a loss of thousands of dollars to the railroad company.

The strike is not confined to the boys recently discharged, but extends to all trainmen, brakemen and conductors alike kicking against the double-headers.
A leader of the strikers said this morning: "We do not want trouble or mean to injure life or property, but will fight against the codfish policy of the Pittsburg road in discharging a few brakemen who probably are the sole supporters of mothers and sisters."

Willis Clark, the master of transportation of the Pittsburg between Fort Wayne and Crestline, says if the company has to abandon the double-header system it will only be for a short time.
"We will send east for big moguls," said Clark, "and as they pull as many cars as two of our locomotives, they will do."

THE POLICE CALLED OUT.

By order of Mayor Zollinger the members of the police force reported at the city hall this morning, at 10 o'clock, to receive instructions and await a call from the railroad company for assistance.
Sheriff Nelson has not been consulted in the matter and will not take a hand, unless to protect life and property. It is not believed that the police will go to the scene of the strike, at least before to-morrow. If a compromise is not affected by that time, Superintendent Law will order out all trains and invoke the protection of the law in so doing.

Fully 300 men are at the east yards and all along the road from the west junction to the Piqua road, three miles east, the railroad track is lined with spectators who discuss the situation.

The strike does not extend to Crestline or Chicago, as all trains leave those places without hindrance. The passenger trains run on time.

Of Interest to Educators.

Col. Jerry Hillegas, the county superintendent of education, this morning was officially notified that the state board of education has arranged that applicants for a state license may be examined at home by the county superintendent instead of at Indianapolis. A state license is one that grants the teacher the privilege of teaching in any part of the state during their natural life. It has been decided that the examinations for state license will be given out in installments. On the last Saturday in February the applicants will be examined in arithmetic, grammar, physiology, geography, physics and United States history. On the last Saturday of March algebra, reading, science of teaching, physical geography, zoology, United States constitution and moral science.
On the last Saturday of April, geography, literature, orthography, rhetoric, botany, general history and penmanship.
Certain conditions are imposed on all applicants. Applicants who make a general average of 75 per cent., and do not fall below 60 in any subject, will be granted license.

plied with its contract and instructed the clerk to issue payment.

found that J. D. Nuttman built a shed on the alley between Wayne and Washington streets, on lots Nos. 171 and 172 old plat, contrary to the fire limits ordinance and without a permit, and also found that John Carl repaired a building on Chestnut street, between Calhoun and Clinton streets, contrary to the ordinances and also without a permit.

The monthly reports of the clerk and treasurer show the city is without a floating debt, that the bonded debt has been reduced $30,000 in the past twelve months. There is $30,922.28 cash in the treasury notwithstanding the payment of $15,000 water works interest and the expenditure of $6,000 in excess of former years for sewerage. The tax levy is lower than it ever was in the history of the city.

satisfactory report.

tary of the board of health.

The Pennsylvania Company Sues the Wabash Road.

Judge Graham, at Chicago yesterday, allowed an intervening petition to be filed by the Pennsylvania company in the case of the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific Railroad company against the Central Trust company, of New York.
The petition sets forth that, prior to December 1, 1880, the Pennsylvania company had an arrangement with the Wabash road by which each sold through tickets, good over the other's lines. The Pennsylvania road rescinded this agreement December 1, 1880, and gave notice to the Wabash road, but on December 16 the Wabash company sold to one William J. Connell a ticket from Omaha to New York. This ticket the Pennsylvania company refused to honor, and Connell was ejected from the train near Philadelphia. He sued for damages, and recovered two verdicts of $15,000 each. Though both these verdicts have been reversed by the court of appeals, the Pennsylvania folks say they have been at an expense of $6,000 in the litigation; and ask the court to allow this claim against the Wabash company.

When a remedy has been given to be a cure for consumption and a perfect lung restorer, it should be kept in every well regulated home. We refer to Dr.
Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, a single dose of which will cure an ordinary cold or cough. A few bottles will cure consumption. It is very pleasant to take.

of Dakota, 30,000 speak the English language.

life. Does not soil the linen, is not a dye, is cleanly and economical.

The Stream of Life.
The blood cannot be pure unless the liver acts rightly. Not can it be rich unless it has enough iron in it. The iron in Brown's Iron Bitters is exactly what is needed to give the blood proper vigor and purity. This splendid tonic acts on the liver and sets the whole digestive machinery to rights. It brings to the blood the iron which gives the tiny corpuscles their rich red color. Don't let your blood get thin and watery, thus inviting disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has proven just the required remedy in hundreds of cases.

It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays a pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhea, whether arising from teething or other causes. A GIGANTIC CRASH!

The break in the Prices of Overcoats are positively such as to astonish the most Skeptical. Let no one induce you to believe that Goods of this class are worth much more than 50 Cents on the Dollar. Those Merchants who bought early expecting to realize a Profit cannot get within 20 Per cent of what they paid. It means, Realize or Succumb to the inevitable. We have scoured the Market, plunked down the Cash at every Sheriff's or Assignee's Sale this season, and could, therefore, offer goods at such prices that put opposition out of the question, and the Season just closed, as every one knows, was a monopoly by us of the Clothing Business of Port Wayne.

We Intend Inventorying Feb. 1st, and in order to more thoroughly reduce our Stock we have made a second and final cut in the prices of all Winter Clothing, Hats, Caps and Gent's Furnishing Goods. The Prices now on Men's, Boys' and Children's Suits and Overcoats are much less than they were in 1880, for the same class of Goods.
